Zoom on the Daily opens April 13, 2022 at TAG Gallery, 5458 Wilshire Blvd, Los Angeles, CA 90036. TAG is open 1pm-7pm, Wed-Sun.

Liliana's art is a caress for the soul. After just a glance, with the same affection immediately felt by the viewer, there is sort of empathetic reciprocity with the artist and her works. Which imposes itself under the mysterious push of a gentle force felt hovering in this evocative space.

The theme of the exhibition, Zoom on the Daily, considers the definition of zoom: a photographic process, which from a wide shot tightens on a detail, on an object, bringing it to the foreground. Zooming on the daily life brings to the foreground the narcissism of oneself caused by the flood of the disposable and interchangeable. The universal experience of chasing after objects made by an increasingly globalizing market that aims at merchandising everything. Including our values, thus stripping them down to their trade value, depriving everything of its soul. The artist understands that the absent soul is only a soul that has transcended to another dimension: and there she captures it to bring it back, into the human dimension by representing its absence.

Zoom on Daily represents life tormented by wars, by the unequal distribution of resources that produces shameful pockets of poverty in a world claiming to be civilized. Torment by the intensification of natural disasters due to the unstoppable global warming. A body of work that cannot help but expose another great absence, one found in the DNA of the United States, home to the Italian artist.
